Step 1: Introductory Information

Policy Statement:

WHEREAS, existing Federal, State, and City laws prohibit discrimination in employment; and

WHEREAS, such laws have established a National, State, and City policy of prohibiting discrimination in the workplace; and

WHEREAS, one of the stated purposes of the Affirmative Action Program of the City of Los Angeles is to ensure that the City does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex (with or without sexually harassing conduct), age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation¹, creed, ancestry, medical condition (cancer),

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) - acquired or perceived, or retaliation for having filed a discrimination complaint or participating in a protected activity²; and

WHEREAS, the City recognizes that all employees have a right to a workplace free from discriminatory actions, language, or images;

Step 4b: Narrative of Interpretation

For entry-level sworn classifications, recruitment goals are developed and strategies identified on ways to better attract under-represented groups via recruiter outreach programs, media outreach, targeted recruitment activities, and City resources or referral systems. For entry-level Police Officer hires in the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD), a federal consent decree requires comparison of LAPD hires for African-American and Hispanic officers against the labor force of the five county region. The same consent decree mandates that 25% of all officers hired by LAPD annually must be female and sets a long-term goal of a sworn workforce that is 20% female.

The under-representation of Hispanics in certain categories may be the result of the significant increase in recent years of the proportion of the population that is Hispanic. There is frequently a lag time before the increased numbers are reflected in the higher level positions, since most of the civil service classifications in the City are promotional, which require current City employment and frequently many years of experience in order to qualify.

The proportion of the population that is Asian has also grown significantly in recent years, which could also be a factor in the under-representation of Asians in some categories. However, despite targeted recruitment, we continue to see low numbers of Asians in our applicant pools for positions in the Skilled Craft and Service/Maintenance categories.

The percentage of the City that is Caucasian is smaller than that of the County, according to the respective Labor Force Data. Another factor contributing to Caucasian under-representation may be the very successful efforts of the City over the years to diversify its workforce.

The City of Los Angeles is committed to maintaining a diverse workforce that is representative of the community it serves, and is committed to the ongoing improvement of outreach and recruitment to meet that goal.

Step 5: Objectives and Steps

1. 1. Provide equal employment opportunities to women when our organization fills vacancies in the Technicians, Protective Services Non-Sworn, Skilled Craft, and Service/Maintenance categories.

- a. The incumbent compositions are compared to the City of Los Angeles Labor Force Data derived from the recent results collected by the U.S. Census Bureau.
- b. If the Personnel Department identifies an under-represented group or groups in an examination for which individuals not currently employed by the City can participate, it attempts to identify targeted recruitment opportunities to attract applicants from the under-represented group(s).
- c. If the examination is promotional and only current employees of the City can participate, the Personnel Department looks at the composition of the feeder classifications to note whether targeted recruitment may be necessary the next time the examinations are given for those classes.
- d. The Personnel Department also ensures that subject matter experts who assist in exam development and raters who evaluate test parts and sit on the interview boards represent the diversity the City's labor force.
- e. The Personnel Department also considers testing methodology. If a written test consistently results in adverse impact, it considers other appropriate testing methodologies to assess job related knowledge and skills, such as performance tests or interviews.
- f. Whenever the Personnel Department administers an examination, it runs a report from the City's payroll system to identify the ethnic and gender composition of the incumbents in the classification being examined for and any feeder classes if the exam is promotional.
- g. The Personnel Department has diversified its recruitment strategies by establishing a social media presence (Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Snapchat, LinkedIn, and YouTube) that continues to grow at an accelerated pace. We continue to posting recruitment announcements with various job websites, professional associations, colleges, universities, trade schools, and the Personnel Department's Intranet website, as well as placing print ads in various newspapers and trade-specific publications, and participate in job and career fairs.

2. 2. Provide equal employment opportunities to Caucasian men when our organization fills vacancies in the Professionals, Protective Services Non-Sworn, and Administrative Support categories.
